"DATA SLAVERY." Jennifer Lyn Morone, an American artist, thinks this is the state in which most people now live. To get free online services, she laments, they hand over intimate information to technology firms. "Personal data are much more valuable than you think," she says. To highlight this sorry state of affairs, Ms

Acclaim from Press

Working with Governments

>90 talks engaging with public

We are a community committed to imagining an alternative vision for a humane and equitable future by harnessing the emancipatory potential of insights from mechanism design in dialog with a range of other academic fields, the communicative imagination of artists, the pragmatic ingenuity of entrepreneurs and the idealism of activists.

A FUTURE WE BELIEVE IN

A world where power rests in diverse and emergent democratic organizations.

Challenging basic inherited institutions by building better, modernized ones

Increasing public knowledge about the emancipatory potential of new ideas in mechanism design

Evolving our vision from the bottom up, coexisting with and working within existing institutions, and building public good providers that benefit people and communities

Replacing capitalism and stale institutions from within by developing ideas, communities, and organizations that practice fairer and more efficient forms of organization.

CORE VALUES

OPEN

RadicalxChange is open. It seeks to facilitate a free exchange of ideas in an environment of thoughtful discourse.

DIGNITY

Every person's well-being (financial or otherwise) is a good in itself. We want our work to reflect and express this.

EGALITARIAN

Many of the ideas at RadicalxChange are animated by a belief that hyper-concentrations of wealth are not natural or efficient, and that a more genuinely competitive market system would result in a broader distribution of wealth.

SOCIAL INNOVATION

At RadicalxChange we embrace the challenge of overturning stale categories and assumptions. We believe that thoughtful, collaborative innovation can help build better social institutions.

GOVERNING PRINCIPLES

RESPONSIBILITY

RadicalxChange leaders are chosen for their expertise in their respective areas of responsibility and take responsibility for ensuring engagement, quality decision-making, fair representation of their domain externally and the consistency of internal participation and governance with other RadicalxChange principles.

DIVERSITY

To build a truly broad-based and effective community, we include the insights and perspectives of a wide range of social interests, political backgrounds, identity groups and vocational expertise. Leaders at all levels of RadicalxChange strive to actively include people who differ from them along all these dimensions but share the mission.

DECENTRALIZATION

RadicalxChange is fundamentally anti-authoritarian in outlook. Leaders at all levels of RadicalxChange strive to push decision-making authority outward to the extent possible, to include and draw upon members of the community wherever possible rather than aggregating decision-making authority in their own hands.

RESPECT

RadicalxChange community members treat each other as epistemic and social equals and should aim to empathize with the intellectual and personal perspective each member of the community brings to the table.

SOCIAL JUSTICE MISSION

RadicalxChange is primarily devoted to achieving its social justice mission, rather than achieving the private goals of any member. RadicalxChange should not become a source of personal enrichment for any individual to the exclusion of the community.

The background of the slide features a complex, isometric geometric pattern. It consists of numerous overlapping rectangular blocks and lines in shades of purple and gold, creating a sense of depth and architectural structure. The pattern is dense and covers the entire left half of the slide.
